(d) if so, whether work on the projects of reaching agreements, on border disputes have been worked out and initiatives taken; and

(e) if so, whether after agreements reached, India is hopeful of speedy border settlement between two Countries?

THE MINISTER OF STATE IN THE MINISTRY OF EXTERNAL AFFAIRS (SHRI DIGVIJAY SINGH): (a) to (e) In the Declaration on Principles for Relations and Comprehensive Cooperation issued on June 23, 2003 during Prime Minister's visit to China, India and China agreed that pending an ultimate boundary settlement, the two countries would work together to maintain peace and tranquillity in their border areas and continue to implement the agreements signed for this purpose. India and China also agreed to each appoint Special Representative to explore from the political perspective of the overall bilateral relationship the framework of a boundary settlement. The National security Adviser has been appointed the Special Representative from the Indian side. China has appointed its Executive Vice Foreign Minister as his counterpart.

Both India and China have agreed to qualitatively enhancing the bilateral relationship at all levels and in all areas while addressing differences through peaceful means in a fair, reasonable and mutually acceptable manner.
